CAN A CADILLAC SURPASS ITS OWN GREAT REPUTATION?

The 1963 Cadillac does just that. In beauty . . . in luxury . . . in performance . . . and in craftsmanship, the new Cadillac creations surpass the famous cars they supersede. Under the hood is a greatly refined engine. It is lighter in weight, quieter and smoother in operation than ever before. And in the way the 1963 Cadillac rides and handles and responds, where, indeed, many believed perfection had been already attained, Cadillac engineers have wrought miracles of improvement.

BELLPORT GATEWAY PLAYHOUSE

SOUTH COUNTRY ROAD BELLPORT, L. I., N. Y. BOX OFFICE ATLANTIC 6-1133

Twenty-one years ago, the present producers of Gateway started the Gateway project in what was then the old Mott barn. The hay lofts were brimming over with hay gathered from the fields on the Gateway farm. From cow and horse stalls, the animals listened while a group of your ambitious actor-directors rehearsed lines for their first play. Fearless and determined, the first Gateway company of performers chose Shakespeare as its first public effort. The stage setting was in "theatre-in-the-round" and the general admission was $1.00. Barn swallows watched from their nests in the rafters.

In 1949 the theatre was remodeled and established as a summer stock company. Little by little the hay lofts became balconies, the cow stalls became dressing rooms, and the playhouse grew into one of the most romantic and intimate summer theatres on the East Coast. Many wonderful things have happened for Gateway during this time. A discerning and enthusiastic group of patrons have steadily supported Gateway's efforts and superlative comments have come from the press. Important talent representatives, agents, and producers have shared in the artistic efforts.

A second theatre, the Gateway Showcase Theatre, in the adjoining red barn, functions as an experimental workshop featuring new plays, new talent, and the work of students enrolled at the Gateway Theatre Workshop. The extensive training program offers daily classes in acting, voice, dance, speech, and motion picture technique to 100 young students. A film studio for 16mm camera work has been completed on the premises and is used for instructional and experimental motion picture work.

Three years ago, Joyce Selznick, Eastern Story and Talent Director for Columbia Pictures, was impressed with the work and physical plant at Gateway and pursued the possibility of training Columbia's new young stars and talent discoveries here. The Gateway-Columbia tie was made official and has resulted in the development of Gateway's talent farm. James Darren, Deborah Walley, Nancy Kovack, and Clay Cole were among the first Columbia actors to work on the Gateway stages. Columbia has discovered new talent from Gateway's student body. Last season, John Simpson, a clerk at a local department store, enrolled for the courses at Gateway, was observed by Miss Selznick in a small role in BYE BYE BIRDIE and was given a contract with Columbia Pictures and the title role in the new ARCHIE series on television for Screen Gems, a Columbia subsidiary.

In 1962 Gateway built its present modern playhouse which is considered to be one of the finest summer theatres in America. This year, Gateway's dining rooms have been re-decorated and air-conditioned and once again patrons may enjoy delicious dinners in air-conditioned comfort before and after the Show.

Gateway's patrons may now enjoy a unique experience in attending Broadway plays and musicals, seeing stars of stage and screen, visiting Gateway's 10 acres of theatre activity, seeing the talent farm in action, attending week-end performances at the student Showcase Theatre, and enjoying moderately priced blue plate dinners in the dining rooms.
